SYNOPSIS

Four friends will see their lives fall apart after a wild party with deadly consequences. After an accident that results in the death of a teenager girl, these inseparable friends will be haunted by guilt and fear, and the fact that they can lose everything, forcing them to hide their actions and avoid dragging their families and girlfriends into a world of pain, betrayal and evil.

Having friends is better than to have a bundle of money, or at least that is what people say. But what would happen if a night of partying with your friends, a stupid accident would turn your world upside down? An accident that involves the death of a teenager. A dead hard to explain. Where to find help? How to deal with the guilt?

Raymundo, Benjamin, Marcos and Gabriel met long time ago when they attended school and since then they have been best friends. Together they learned and enjoyed an adolescence and experienced a revolution of hormones, changes and definitions, that ended up bringing them closer. Today, after some years, they still gather every Saturday along side a grill, with their families and children, just to enjoy each others company and share with the people they love and like to be with.

When Raymundo comes back from a summer in South East Asia, he announces to the rest of the friends that he met an amazing girl and that he is about to get marry. Everyone is stunned. But Maite takes the biggest hit. She never expected his ex husband, who is very immature and childish by nature, to appear out of the nowhere with an express girlfriend, who by the way is almost the age of her daughter. Marcos and Gabriel, who know Raymundo's impulsive character, decide to throw him a bachelorette's weekend party.

This fun weekend will take place on Benjamin's wife beach house. The four friends will "disconnect" from the rest of the world during the weekend.

Raymundo just wants to hang out with his friends, but Marcos arranges for something “wild” without everyone else’s consent, and hires an exotic dancer. That Friday afternoon, all four friends head out to the beach by car, joking around, like they used to in their adolescence, with out knowing that everything would change that night forever.

Meanwhile, back in the city, Trinidad and Josefa decide to take Maite, Raymundo’s ex wife, out bar hoping to help her digest Raymundo’s news. At first, Maite plays hard, but ends up admitting in tears that she doesn’t conceive Raymundo marrying someone younger than her. She feels old and defeated. Trinidad and Josefa try to cheer her up. Maite starts drinking, gets wasted and tells her friends she need to meet the “young bitch”. Trinidad and Josefa, stormed by guilt, are forced to admit that they have met already Raymundo’s finance, that her name is Agata and that she has invited them to a party.

They try to calm the situation by lying about the way she looks. There assure her that she is an average girl, that is not pretty nor ugly, just normal. That is not the nicest person in the world either. Maite screams her heart out and force them to take her to that party. And this is how they all end up at a Club named “Bubbles”, surrounded by young and beautiful people, all Agata’s friends. Agata turns out to be a bombshell, the nicest person, with a great personality and a very talented belly dancer.

Maite starts a fight with her, she can’t believe that Raymundo is marrying that girl. She feels she will loose him forever. Things start to get out of control and Maite ends up with a broken nose. When they head out of the club, she confuses someone’s car with Agata’s and grabs a metal and starts to destroy it. Turns out to be a Agata’s brother’s car, a police detective, and all three girls end up spending the night in jail with out any communication with the outside world.

Meanwhile, back at the beach house, Raymundo tells his buddies that he is willing to stop all his wild lifestyle to be with Agata. But suddenly, the lights go down, the stereo starts playing “You can leave your hat on” from Joe Cocker, and a sexy girl named Vanessa starts to dance in the middle of the living room.

Marcos convinces Raymundo to forget Agata for one night and to party with all like in the old times. Gabriel gives whiskey shots to everyone, while Benjamin disapproves. Raymundo little by little starts to losen up.

Benjamin starts to worry when his wife doesn't answer her phone, but know one worries about it and start teasing him of being afraid of his wife. After her lap dance, Vanessa offers her "full service" to Raymundo. They start to argue. Marcos suggests Raymundo to go all the way, but Roman wants to leave the partying days behind.

Benjamin supports him and tells everyone that the girl needs to leave. But with a high quantity of alcohol in his body Raymundo ends up taking Vanessa up stairs. When they get back, they all decide to get into the swimming pool. Here is when the "accident" takes place. When they try to throw Vanessa into the pool, she accidentally hits her head with the edge. She ends up unconscious and bleeding. The blood starts coming out like a fountain.

Everyone just stares at her with out knowing what to do. When they take her out of the pool she is already dead. This accident is irreversible. Terrified, Marcos grabs her bag to find out everything he cans about the girl and when he pulls out her directs license he find out she is under age. This is when they really start to panic. The four friends look at the body, with the platinum wig on the side and all they can see is a young girl dead. Marcos nods his head, playing again in his mind, everything that just happened. No one will believe it was an accident.

The facts are that they are four adult men who hired a under age as a sexual companion and now she is dead. Raymundo is shaking, he just had sex with her. He will get a life in prison sentence. And you know what they do in prison to men who slept with teenagers?

It is Gabriel who reacts with a cold head and rises up to the occassion and says to all of them "this is what will do..."

Hours after and with the sun rising up, Gabriel and Benjamin get back to the house after burying Vanessa's body. Raymundo and Marcos throw their car down a cliff. Gabriel starts speaking, he says... "the least one knows about what the other has done the best. This ends up right now". No one says anything. That came in handy when Raymundo and Marcos hid from Gabriel and Benjamin that they found some cash in Vanessa's car and decided to keep it.

They all go back to the city, and from this day on, their lives start to fall apart. When they start to live their lives again as nothing has happened they will discover that it's more difficult than what they imagined. Benjamin will not be able to look into his own daughter directly into her eyes. Marcos and Raymundo will discover that keeping the money will be one of the worst decisions they had ever made. And Gabriel will be face again with the truth when he starts working as a professor in the high school where Vanessa used to study.

Unknown answers will start to pop up. What is the identity of this girl, who is her family and what is her story. All these details haunt these four friends. And when the crisis starts to touch their families and the women they love everything will start to fall apart as easy as a castle of cards. Everyone will start to see blurred lines and will begin to ask themselves if the PACT OF BLOOD they made is still intact.

Life will put to the test these four men's lives, pushing them into a journey of no return. When life turns dangerous is not about saving a friendship anymore, it is about saving themselves...

A HANGOVER THAT WILL NEVER END

CHARACTERS

BENJAMIN

Benjamin has a formed, respectable and virtuous life. He fulfills his duties as husband, father and professional. Nobody suspects that, in parallel, his preferences and desires are far from that apparent perfection. At Raimundo's bachelor party he recognizes Vanessa, and he asks her not to say a word. After the accident, he keeps the secret, since he knows that if it comes out, everything he has achieved with effort would disappear forever.

His love: Trinidad

TRINIDAD

She has a well-organized family life, perhaps a little overwhelmed by his duties as a mother, and with a stable relationship, but with a depressed sexual life. Nothing would make her suspect that her perfect world will turn up when she discovers that her husband was present when the young prostitute died, of whom all the media speaks. Thus, Trinidad will go from being a housewife, mother and perfect wife, to overcome all its moral and ethical limits, in order to keep afloat the only life she knows.

Her love: Benjamin

MARCOS

After the death of Vanessa, Marco will discover in the car of the young woman a bag full of money and he will decide to take it.

Paranoid and superstitious, Marco will feel persecuted by the presence of Vanessa, which will strongly affect his relationship with Josefa, who was the girl's teacher. The Josefa's sudden desire to become a mother, will make him an even more obsessive and chauvinist man, but when he finds out that he is sterile, he will know that the son they are expecting can not be his, increasing his jealousy and paranoia.

His love: Josefa

JOSEFA

Josefa will see how her husband changes, without understanding what is happening to him, and that will destabilize their relationship.

In her work, the disappearance and death of her student Vanessa, will affect her classes, and the way in which she relates to her artistic side. Josefa will begin to paint the young woman, making paintings that, for the first time, she feels she can show, and unintentionally disturbing her superstitious husband.

Over time, her relationship with Gabriel will be transformed into a passionate romance, and she will be as attracted to him as she was when she was a teenager. During the story, Josefa will be pregnant as much as she wanted, but it will be at the worst possible moment, since she will not know if the father of his son is her husband Marco, or her lover Gabriel.

Her love: Marcos and Gabriel

GABRIEL

At the beginning, he will face the trauma of seeing Vanessa die, associating it immediately to the event that happened a few months ago in his work. When he went to work at the high school where Vanessa was a student, Gabriel must fight with his own conscience, and convince himself that he still has the emotional capacity and moral authority to guide a group of young people. The closeness with Josefa will make them live again their love, and they will become lovers, trying to deal with the guilt of betraying Marco. Things will get even more complicated when Josefa tells him that she is pregnant.

In the final section of the story, Gabriel must take sides for what he believes to be fair, even opposing those he most loves and at the cost of breaking family ties and friendship that he considers sacred.

His love: Josefa

CARMEN

How does the story begin?

As a desolate mother looking for her daughter, determined not to stop until she finds her.

What will she face?

The worst tragedy imaginable for a mother: to recognize the mortal remains of her daughter. Carmen must get ahead, and face a new search, this time to find the one or those responsible for the death of her daughter. At the same time, she will face the struggle against an indifferent society, transforming her pain into a crusade for justice.

Her love: Gabriel, but this love does not prosper.

RAIMUNDO

After the death of Vanessa, Raimundo will try not to sink into guilt and move on with his life. But having a daughter of the same age as the young woman will remind him every day of the damage he and his friends caused. On the other hand, the journalistic investigation of Maite and the obsession for the case of Agata, will mean a grave danger for Raimundo.

Later, when Raimundo discovers that Marco stole Vanessa's money to cover a hole in the gym's finances, his fury will take him to risk this long friendship.

His love: Agata

AGATA

In addition to the attacks of Maite, Agatha will face the difficulties of a life that seems less and less idyllic. Raimundo was very weird after his bachelor party, and does not want to tell her what happens to him. As the days go by, he becomes increasingly irritable and distant, and although Agata will try to stay positive, he will begin to doubt about their marriage plans.

Agata, like Maite, feels very close to Daniela's case and begins to publish notes to contribute to the case, led by her brother Feliciano.

Her love: Raimundo.

MAITE

When the mutilated body of Vanessa appears, Maite will be very interested in solving the case, and she will ask her former boss to cover the news, to show her that she can come back to serious journalism.

Her investigative advances begin to be published in a series of reports that gain more and more notoriety and that are a threat for the four friends. In this way, her relationship with Feliciano is becoming increasingly close and passionate, although her journalistic interests will come to endanger the police investigation.
