THERE ARE LOVES THAT ARE NEVER FORGOTTEN.

Synopsis

After 27 years in a coma, idealistic Pancho Bustamante wakes up in an entirely different body and world from what he remembers last.

He is fascinated by the political, social and technological changes which have taken place in the last years, but he is also disappointed because the happiness he was promised isn't what he imagined. While trying to adapt to 2016, Pancho will once again cross paths with the love of his life, Rafaela Guerra, who is now a woman through and through, the owner of "El Toro Taquilla", a popular smokehouse and BBQ restaurant where the people of the Independencia area can eat and dance. On top of that, Rafaela started a family with none other than Alejandro "Jano" Toro, Pancho's best friend, the man he considered practically a brother.

Rafaela and Jano have 26-year-old twins: organized Bastian and relaxed Gabriel, they are like water and oil.

To the couple's relief, Pancho suffers from blackouts as a product of the coma and doesn't remember a fundamental piece of information of his life: the day of the accident, Rafaela confessed she was pregnant with his offspring. The twins, who are years ahead of him intellectually speaking, are Pancho's children. Pancho, with all the romanticism and idealistic nature of his 20-year-old soul, will fight with all his might to win Rafaela's love again, while she, with an entire life as baggage, will face the decision of giving him another chance or keeping what she's accomplished in the last 27 years.

Pancho, Rafaela and Jano will be the center of this great love story filled with romance and comedy. They will entertain us and make us think about what we dreamed of becoming, what we have turned into and the person we can be.

WHO CONTROLS WHOM?

Synopsis

"The pleasant and funny life of Max, Joaquín, Borja, Richard and Trompo, a relaxed group of mechanics, is altered by different women who suddenly take charge of their lives. The first one is Ximena, Max's ex-wife, who right after their divorce, snatched his beloved workshop, the business that occupied a great part of Max's life and took him years to build.

Ximena starts making big changes at the workshop, from exploiting the good looks of the young mechanics to attract female customers, to demanding longer working hours. Such actions trigger these studs' anger, who know a lot about motors and little about being managed by a woman, who apart from not knowing a thing about mechanics, brings along her two girlfriends: a sexy mechanic that revolutionizes the place and an ex secretary, who disrupts the peace with her rages and shouts.

Now, Max's objective is to recover his workshop and Ximena's to keep it hers. The male personnel will begin to change too following the advice of a woman's voice on the radio. With her straight and direct speeches, she evidences the behavior of men in real life and the secrets hidden in their words of love. This advice will question Joaquín's actions and words, turning his love life into a hell of confusions and excuses. He proposes to meet the person causing his misfortunes and conquer her to make her get trapped in her own words. The battle of the sexes is not over and it seems that the only way to find peace is to assume that we care about love and that for the sake of love, it is worth putting it all aside."

PHARMACIST EMPORIUM TO COLLAPSE, IS NOT REVENGE... BUT JUSTICE.

Synopsis

Breicok is a multinational pharmaceutical corporation that, in celebration of its thirtieth anniversary, organizes a convention in Barranquilla, Colombia. The company has been the subject of complaints in various countries. There have been accusations that Breicok has produced a drug that has caused the deaths of many children. Federico Breicok, president of the company, flatly denies the accusations. Among those attending the convention are Mauricio Riera, director in the United States, Elena Ramírez, director in the Dominican Republic and Claudio Alberti, in Chile. Also, at the hotel has arrived Belgica Briceño pretending to be a tourist. Prior to the start of the convention, Faust, escort and trustworthy man of Federico, is killed with injected cyanide. Despite what happened, Federico decides to continue with the agenda. On opening night, Victor, a desperate father, breaks into the event. In front of the guests Victor points Federico with a gun and claims revenge for the death of his son as a result of a Breicok medication. Finally, the situation is controlled by Samuel, police inspector and Victor is arrested.

“Mauricio meets Belgica and is attracted to her, it is reciprocal. As the days pass, there are other murders the police investigate and they are attributed to a serial killer. Mauricio, who has fallen in love with Belgica, inquires in parallel about the drug. The results confirm the danger of the medicine. Mauricio tells Belgica and she supports him. Mauricio confronts Federico and threatens to report him if they do not withdraw the drug from the market. Federico fires him from the company and hires a hitman to kill him. The hitman ambushes Mauricio in his room, but fails to kill him as he is startled by a stranger with his face covered, who saves Mauricio by the hitman. The face of the murderer is unveiled and Mauricio is stunned to discover that Belgica saved his life.”

Belgica confesses to Mauricio her identity: Ana Andarcia. She explains that her father, Gabriel Andarcia, a pharmacist scientist was tortured and killed by Federico to avoid being denounced for the fatal consequences of a drug produced by Breicok Pharmaceutical. Belgica assures Mauricio that he will avenge his father's death and of the victims of the bad practices of Breicok. Mauricio asks him not to do so because there is enough evidence to put those responsible in jail. Belgica disappears and Mauricio fails to try to find her. Federico moves his influences, bribes and buys wills by saving himself from jail despite Mauricio's complaints.

One night, Belgica enters Federico's house and fulfills his righteous deed by slaughtering him in the pool. The next day Mauricio, in a newspaper stand, reviews the headlines and continues on his way. Belgica, from a distance, melancholy sees Mauricio move away. Immersed in his thoughts, he smiles: Belgica did justice.

THE PERSON WHO TRULY LOVES YOU, WILL NEVER LET YOU GO.

Synopsis

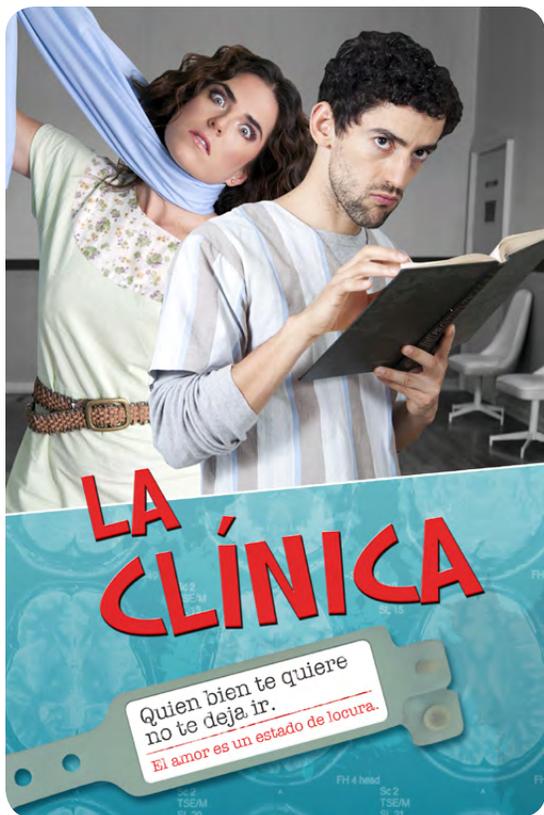

The Clinic is a psychiatric hospital housed in an old mansion that is headed up by Dr. Cosme Krauss, who ends up becoming a hysterical patient himself due to his persecution mania. At the Clinic there are all sorts of patients whose mental disorders, pathologies and everyday occurrences make the place anything but boring.

Elvicio arrives to The Clinic because his girlfriend, Maripily has him committed there to prevent him from leaving her. From the start, Elvicio tries to escape, but when he meets Lucy, the chief nurse who is an attractive if naïve young woman and the object of Dr. Krauss' affections, he decides to postpone his escape plans.

But what no one counted on is that Maripily checks herself into The Clinic in order to be near to the man she loves. This sets off a double love triangle that has unpredictable consequences. The Clinic also has some other rather peculiar patient: Miguel/Faustino/ Sereno/Navajas a brilliant young man who has an impressive academic career, however he's in conflict with his own conscience that constantly betrays him and takes over him, turning him into a perverse rancher at one moment and into a Colombian from a poor neighborhood at another.

Amid the lunacy, Elvicio ends up being the director of The Clinic with his new love, Lucy. The Clinic, now led by this lazy artist, will have to survive the difficulties of lack of funding, new patients, new romances, insane goings-on and all sorts of other problems.

Insanity that is so much fun would be difficult to find, as life at The Clinic takes on all sorts of entanglements, misunderstandings and mistakes, with the patients and the staff confusing one other, which leaves one to think that the craziest of them all are not necessarily the mental patients!

Synopsis

"The Shelter" is a dilapidated nineteenth-century house owned by Esperanza, a woman in the full throes of the menopause, whose husband has left her for a Hooters hostess 20 years her junior. Until a few days ago Esperanza lived in ignorant bliss with her unfaithful husband, her senile father who has a physical disability which for the life of him he can't remember how he got it, her daughter Mercedes Yolanda, a.k.a. "The Blister" for obvious reasons and Crescencia the macho maid and a former wrestling pro. Then there's Búlgaro Antonio, Esperanza's spoilt son who has decided to live with his mother at this painful time in her life and save himself a small fortune in rent added into the bargain. A misunderstood folk singer Búlgaro Antonio has just been kicked out of the apartment where he and his Cuban wife lived. Also into the mix is Remora, Esperanza's 17-year-old grandson, who has also joined their ranks because his parents have gone to live in Ciudad del Carmen and do not want him skipping school (although he's been suspended for a month already for exploding a bomb in the bathroom). Mercedes Yolanda, who has been away on a tour of the former Soviet Union, arrives home with Boris her very blonde and very pungent Russian boyfriend who she met on Facebook a month ago and who is currently the love of her life. All these characters live at the "shelter", a house of misfits and hangers-on as Crescencia calls it.

The Shelter is a mirror of a typical dysfunctional Mexican family: an absentee father, an over-protective mother, children who can't let go of their mother's apron strings and their equally unstable partners, not to mention the maid and the grandfather who is forever in the way. All living under the same roof - with hilarious results!

As we get to know the characters we not only become acquainted with their defects and inconsistencies but also the qualities and values that make them who they are and what defines their roles in this strangely lovable family that is constantly in the process of disintegrating and putting itself back together again.

This is a reflection on the importance of family, no matter what form it takes, because as the saying goes, there's no place like home or, in this case, The Shelter.

THE WORLD IS CHANGING.

Synopsis

"The series, written and directed by the prominent producer Carlos Pinto, portrays fictional stories inspired by real-life criminal cases; these are the stories of ordinary people who never imagined of committing a crime.

The stories of "Irreversible" peacefully start in a neighborhood or a town where nothing ever happens. But suddenly, an incident happens which marks the life of the protagonist, destroys peace and brings out the impulse of committing a crime. The heroes are taking a decision that will change their lives forever; there's definitely no turning back.

"Irreversible" is a series of unitary episodes in which different stories are linked with an umbilical cord: a human being facing an abyss and deciding whether to take a step forward or a step back; the first option will inevitably lead the person to becoming a murderer and irreversibly, fall into the void."

YOUR SIDE OF THE WALL...
DEPENDS ON HOW YOU PERFORM.

Synopsis

22 contestants (celebrities and regular people) are divided into two mixed teams. Every week they will have to face a fierce competence which will grant them seven days full of futuristic privileges for some (the winning team), while the others will have to endure, for the same amount of time, the hardships of the past.

The house is a key element in "Opposite Worlds", because it is the home for both the Past and the Future teams and this house is divided just by a glass wall. While some enjoy the comforts of a modern life, the others suffer the scarcity and hardship of past times. Members of the past and the future can interact with everyone, on a daily basis, at "The Yard of the Present", but just for a few hours and under certain explicit conditions only.

A reality show where team work is essential and their permanence in one time or the other will depend exclusively on how they perform.

The show aired in 2012 in Chile (248 eps, 1 season), Colombia, Paraguay, and US.
